Afghanistan has had problems since the 1979 Soviet invasion years ago. This war stricken country always seems to be in constant turmoil. One of the major contributors was the rein of the Taliban. The unethical practices of this extremist group have resulted in much suffering and dying. There are multiple reasons why this country is in a humanitarian crisis. Their economy is a huge factor in why so many people who are in dyer need of food are going hungry unnecessarily. Many families are surviving on practically shreds of nothing daily, but however what is being done to help to divert the hunger and malnutrition is not sufficient for the needs of the people. The issue of hunger and starvation in Afghanistan is utterly unacceptable. The people are suffering due to the nation's State. The government is in constant turmoil; therefore the people are neglected and are going hungry as a result.
