Hockey is a game of precision and accuracy. You have to master many skills to play. Skating, passing and shooting are all things that need to be accomplished before stepping out on the ice.

The ice is divided into three sections: the attacking zone, the defensive zone and the neutral zone. The attacking zone is where the offensive play takes place. The defensive zone is where you defend your own zone. The neutral zone is in the middle of the ice.

The rules of hockey are very similar to those of soccer and lacrosse. You generally cannot purposely hurt someone. And the team that scores the most wins.
