Plot Summary: This movie is based on a true story. there are two schools, one black school and one white school. There are both closed down and have to be sent to one school called T.C. Williams High School. The school has a football team and both black and white kids join it and they can't get along. There was a new coach for that team and it was a black coach. All the white kids hate on the team hate black people and are threatening to sit out until the black coach is replaced. During a practice, the black and white kids start tackling each other and start getting along with each other and end up having a perfect season. Nearing the championship games, one of the white kids on the team gets into an accident which paralyzes him for six months. But the titans would not be held back by that injury. They go into the championship game and end up becoming state champions. about 2 years later, the white gets into another accident which ends up killing him and everyone from the old football team stand near his grave with sad looks. All of them will remember him forever until they die and hope that he rests in piece.
